Multimodal integration training in Swedish

It can be a real experience to move to Finland. It may take a while before you are able to adjust to everything new. We at Arffman would like to make this time of transition easier. The multimodal integration training at Arffman will support you to find your own way in Finland. The aim is that you would know how to manage everyday life in Finland and at the same time you would have the opportunity to apply for jobs and into further training. You learn the language as efficiently online as you would do in a classroom setting. When you have live lessons the students also work together in small groups and they learn to know each other.

Integration training at Arffman

- Language classes with an emphasis on spoken Swedish
- You learn to know the culture and the society (for instance during an internship) and you get support in life management.
- Individualized in response to the skills of the participants
- A functional way of working linked to everyday life of the participants
- Local knowledge and the support of the whole Arffman, even web based material.

Why online?

- You can join from your device regardless of where you live, from your own device
- The training is customized according to the needs of the students
- Different levels of groups depending on how fast and what level you are at
- Interactive teaching in the presence of teacher and your own study group
- The content is the same as in a classroom setting
- Gives the possibility to repeat and go back to what was studied before.
